Fiscal oversight

Chairman, House Committee on Finance. Previous chairmanships: Anti-Corruption; National Ethics and Values.
Memberships: Public Procurement; Subsidy Probe; Interior.

What the committee does.

The House Committee on Finance is the point at which national revenue assumptions meet evidence. Its public hearings question revenue-generating agencies on projections, collections and remittances, and its work underpins the fiscal framework considered by the House.

The committee's oversight covers the budget process, revenue frameworks and public financial accountability. Its hearings are deliberately public: the questions, the answers and the figures are placed on the record.
